About Me

I have been passionate about politics from a young age, inspired by my father, Panduka Amarasinghe, whose involvement in political meetings and discussions shaped my understanding of leadership and governance. My political journey began as a youth participant supporting Dr. Harsha de Silva and has steadily grown through my active engagement with various political initiatives. I became a member of the Maharagama Youth Council, was elected to the Youth Parliament, and proudly gained valuable experience in my teenage years. Since then, I have been deeply involved in party activities with Parties, and my commitment to creating positive change in my community has only grown. In addition to my political engagement, I have developed a successful career in banking, honing skills in leadership, problem-solving, and strategic decision-making. My goal is to follow in my father's footsteps and continue contributing to the development and betterment of our area through dedicated political service and leadership, while leveraging my banking experience to drive economic growth and opportunity.
